Parent/Guardian Permission Form

Dear Parents/Guardians,

Students are offered the opportunity to submit short audio personal narratives for A New Agora for New York: Museums as Spaces for Democracy, a National Endowment for the Humanities-funded project sponsored by the Museum Association of New York that our local museum is participating in. Only student first names will be identified in this project in which stories related to democracy will be collected to commemorate the Semiquincentennial, the 250th anniversary of 1776 United States Declaration of Independence.

If you have any questions regarding this request, please don't hesitate to contact Tina Downey at tdowney@roberthjackson.org

Thank you for returning this form before your session and for your support!

I understand that any audio provided is for a project in which the Robert H. Jackson Center is participating. I give permission for use of the student's audio recording for the project including website posting, sharing, and publicizing the stories. No photographs of students will accompany the stories, nor will they be identified in any way other than first name and the museum who collected the story.

I understand that I can request the removal of my child's audio story from the website at any time by contacting the Robert H. Jackson Center.

I acknowledge that Robert H. Jackson Center will take reasonable measures to protect my child's privacy and safety online, but I understand that no online platform can guarantee 100% security.
